

The political economy of Brexit: Implications for the labour market, free movement and the UK welfare state

Workshop - 16th September 2016

Board Room, Interdisciplinary Centre of the Social Sciences \(ICOSS\)

University of Sheffield

0930 - 1000 Coffee and Registration

1000 - 1015 Welcome by Scott Lavery (SPERI)

1015 - 1145 Panel One: Employment Rights and the post-Brexit Labour Market

Chair: Nicole Lindstrom (University of York)

Jason Heyes (University of Sheffield), 'Where Next for UK Employment Rights?'

Andy Morton (University of Leeds), 'The Rhetoric and Reality of EU employment law in view of possible repeal post-Brexit'

Scott Lavery (University of Sheffield, SPERI), 'British business and employment rights: building the bonfire?'

Paul Copeland (Queen Mary University), 'Why Brexit will do little to change the EU's Constitutional Asymmetry'

1145 - 1200 Coffee Break

1200 - 1330 Panel Two: Brexit, 'Social Europe' and EU (dis)integration

Chair: Charlie Dannreuther (University of Leeds)

David Bailey (University of Birmingham), 'Social Europe after Brexit?'

Nicole Lindstrom (University of York), 'The Future of 'Social Europe' post-Brexit and the Revised Posted Workers Directive: On Juncker's dribbling and the 'yellow card''

Neil Dooley (University of Sussex), 'Ireland, Brexit and European Integration'

Kevin Farnsworth (University of York), 'Competing for Capital: Implications of the Post-Brexit World'

1330 - 1415 Lunch

1415 - 1515 Keynote: Ben Rosamond (University of Copenhagen), 'Brexit and the Contexts of EU Crises'

1515 - 1530 Coffee Break

1530 - 1700 Panel Three: Brexit, free movement and the UK Welfare State

Chair: Phil Roberts (University of Sheffield, SPERI)

Heather Connolly (De Montfort University), 'Trade union responses to migration in the UK: past lessons and future challenges'

Owen Parker (University of Sheffield, SPERI), 'Critical Political Economy and Europe's 'other' crisis: The ethics of EU citizenship and free movement'

Jana Bacevic, (University of Cambridge), 'Experts, exports and expats: (cultural) political economy of post-Brexit knowledge production in the UK'

Workshop is part of the project 'Britain and Europe: The political economy of Brexit', funded by the White Rose Consortium.

For further information, contact: robbie.pye@sheffield.ac.uk